The Italian job: Milan hoping to clear up after Brexit

Select Nine has seen the City's unsuccessful business in up and coming businesses such as the Italian job, or the lack thereof. A group of Italian operators and entrepreneurs are positioning themselves as a cornerstone of the City's success, ready to make Milan a leading hub for technology and innovation.

Select Nine, an independent, non-governmental organization, is building a global platform to help Milan become a major player in the global economic scene. The organization is focusing on creating a business-friendly environment in Milan, with a special focus on technology, innovation, and sustainability.

The group plans to create an online platform where businesses can share information and resources. They also hope to establish a network of business leaders, entrepreneurs, and investors who can support each other's growth and success.

"We believe that Milan has the potential to become a global player in the business world," said Select Nine's CEO. "We're committed to helping our members succeed and contribute to the city's economic growth."

The organization is partnering with local government officials, businesses, and investors to achieve its goals. They also plan to host events and workshops to help businesses connect and learn from each other.

"Our goal is to make Milan a hub for innovation and entrepreneurship," said Select Nine's COO. "We want to create a thriving business ecosystem that will benefit everyone in the city."

The group is currently working on a website and app to help businesses connect and share information. They are also planning to host a series of events in the coming months to help businesses learn from each other and connect with investors.

"We're excited about the potential of Milan and the opportunities that are available," said Select Nine's CFO. "We believe that with the right support and resources, Milan can become a global player in the business world."

The group is currently seeking investors and partners to help them achieve their goals. They are also looking for businesses to join their platform and contribute to the city's economic growth.

"We welcome anyone who wants to be a part of this exciting new venture," said Select Nine's CEO. "Together, we can make Milan a global hub for innovation and entrepreneurship."